What's more important—God or family? Are you safe? Do you have sex on the brain? Do you use Viagra? Do you own a gun? The city you love the most. The highway you hate the most. Your favorite genius. "IT'S THE JUXTAPOSITION OF THE SIMPLISTIC WITH THE INTRICATE THAT MAKES A ROOM AT ONCE INTERESTING AND EASY TO BE IN," SAYS GERALD Tolomeo, who gains inspiration from late designer Billy Baldwin's signature slipper chair. Tolomeo uses the chair consistently in his work. "It's a clean-lined design that serves as the perfect complement to period designs as well as contemporary styles," he says. "To quote Billy Baldwin, 'You should never be so aware of a room that it comes between you and the person you are with. That's not decoration, it's interference.'"
